

CHARGE Anywhere Enables ACH Services for Use with QuickBooks®

SOUTH PLAINFIELD, NJ (March 5, 2009) – CHARGE Anywhere®, a leading provider of secure Point-of-Sale (POS) solutions and electronic payment services, is proud to add ACH Services to its long line of available features on its secure payment gateway, ComsGate®. With these services, merchants will be able to debit and credit funds from any checking, savings, or business account.

Automatic clearing house (ACH) is a nationwide electronic funds transfer (EFT) system that provides for the inter-bank clearing of credit and debit transactions and for the exchange of information among participating financial institutions. ACH is one of the groups of processing institutions that have networked together to exchange (clear and settle) electronic transactions.

CHARGE Anywhere provides ACH Services with the card payment software designed for use with QuickBooks® and through Web Terminal. With Web Terminal, CHARGE Anywhere is enabling merchants to use the bill presentment feature with ACH services. Merchants will be able to send a bill directly to a customer, who in turn completes the transaction with their banking account information. This payment can be applied to invoices in QuickBooks as well. CHARGE Anywhere is also constantly expanding its relationships with ACH processors. Currently certified processors include First ACH, Jetpay, and TeleDraft.

By adding ACH services, CHARGE Anywhere is enabling merchants to have more processing choices. With ACH transactions, a merchant can take advantage of this cost effective solution as well as its advanced security. These services will allow merchants to give their customers more options for payment methods. CHARGE Anywhere is always broadening its service offerings to its valued customers and their merchants; ACH services are the latest offering on this front.
